NEO-NAZI PROPAGANDA OFF CAMPUS!

Posters appearing on campus depicting images of Greek statues and featuring slogans such as “Serve your people” or “Let’s become great again” are part of a campaign by Identity Evropa, a neo-Nazi organization associated with the alt-right movement. They use a deceptive and obfuscated approach to push white supremacist ideology. Coded language and imagery attempts to normalize their violent racist, misogynist, and homophobic ideas in order to establish a foothold on college campuses nationwide.

Identity Evropa is led by Nathan Damigo, a current student at CSU Stanislaus. He was convicted of a racially motivated robbery of an Arab taxi driver with a pistol, and has served a 5 year sentence for this attack. Since his release, Damigo has devoted himself to white supremacist activism, and Identity Evropa is his latest project.

On October 15th, Identity Evropa staged a 25 minute anti-immigrant rally in San Francisco, protesting the city’s sanctuary status. The location was changed at the last minute to avoid a confrontation with antiracists.

There are two known instances where their members engaged in “outreach” on Northern California UC campuses, pushing their white supremacist views: at UC Berkeley on May 6th and then at UC Davis on September 26th. Identity Evropa members have abandoned the neo-Nazi look; they don’t wear white supremacist symbols or have shaven heads. Instead they wear button down shirts, slacks, and have clean-cut hair, attempting to be indistinguishable and more approachable.

We are deeply concerned, as anti-racists, to see the emboldened actions of white supremacists on campuses. Their propaganda is fueling the climate of racism in California and these institutions. The community cannot depend on the state or the university to meaningfully push back against racism and protect us when it is part of the problem. We need to band together, alert one another when we see these posters, or other racist/white supremacist propaganda on our campuses and push back with anti-racist and anti-fascist messages!

Take Action!

Those of us who wish to live in a world not governed by violent racism must build community and get organized in order to face the increasing threat of white supremacists attempting to create a space for their hate in our communities. For a start, we call on the campus community to remove and destroy the posters and symbols of this group wherever they encounter them!
