

Meet Zac Johnson, Your Neo-Nazi Neighbor

Meet Zachary Van Johnson, who lives at 5090 Hamptons Club Dr. in Alpharetta, Georgia. Johnson also rents out the Bigfoot Blue Ridge cabins at 419 Lake Ridge Dr. in Blue Ridge, GA.

When he’s not taking care of kiddo or building custom birdhouses for his “Gourmet Birdhaus” business, Zac Johnson spends his time as a white power propagandist. Johnson posts a steady stream of propaganda on Twitter and does graphic design for militant racist projects. Johnson is clear about his hatred of Jews and his contempt for people of color, as well as his admiration for Adolf Hitler, who Johnson refers to as “Uncle.”

Johnson helped to create racist stickers decrying “degeneracy” and promoting the racist “Alt-Right” which appeared earlier this year at Georgia State University, Georgia Tech, Kennesaw State University and on the streets of Atlanta, posted by his white power associates. Johnson also claimed responsibility for posting outdoor signs promoting the far-Right “white genocide” conspiracy theory in 2015.

Design work by Zac Johnson under his Twitter handle @J_Enoch_Powell. This image celebrates Hitler, British fascist Oswald Mosley, and Benito Mussolini.

Johnson travels to white supremacist conferences, such as those hosted by the notorious Stormfront.org website (run by a former Klansman and linked to several murders) as well as the “Alt-Right” white nationalist National Policy Institute. Johnson tries to keep a low profile day-to-day, while secretly organizing with others for racial conflict. Expose him to your neighbors and keep each other safe. Don’t give funds to white supremacist organizing by renting his cabin.
