

DAY OF SOLIDARITY WITH J20 Defendants April 10

On January 20th, 2017, over 200 people were mass arrested for protesting the inauguration of Donald Trump. In a shocking display of state repression, prosecutors charged the protesters with multiple felony charges including "rioting" and "conspiracy to riot." By standing together, refusing plea deals, and courageously taking their cases to trial, J20 defendants have been pushing back. The prosecutor's case has fallen apart: since the first trial, over 130 people have been acquitted or had all charges dismissed. But the fight is far from over 59 people are still facing decades in prison.

These prosecutions are very literally an act of state terror. They want to have a chilling effect on resistance in America. Tuesday, April 10th, defendants are calling for an international day of solidarity. Get involved by attending this local action or getting in touch.

Until all the charges are dropped!
